

My Australian sister's crisis prayer

She knows that there is someone "up there" who means well with her. Whatever the everything is, she brings it before God most High and says:

I know, that everything will work itself out fine for me.

Amen

And then she lets go of it because she knows, that a good solution will come. If need be she tells herself again and trusts in the one up there. And it always works out fine for her – quite often even better than she imagined.